

Academic and Clinical Central Office for Research and Development

PRIVACY NOTICE: WEBSITE NEWS SUBSCRIPTION LIST

The Academic and Clinical Central Office for Research and Development (ACCORD) is a partnership between the University of Edinburgh and NHS Lothian Health Board. We use personal data in order to support our service delivery.

What personal data do we hold?

We use and manage your contact details to deliver advice and keep you up to date on matters relating to clinical research.

We obtain the data from your subscription to ACCORD news on our website.

What do we use your data for?

We hold your name and email address in a mailing list to send alerts of news posted to our website.

We do not use the information for any other purpose and will not share your contact details.

We do not use profiling or automated decision-making processes in relation to you.

How long do we hold your personal data?

We will hold the personal data you provided for as long as you remain opted in to receive our alerts.

You can opt out of the mailing list at any time by emailing enquiries@accord.scot to request we delete your contact details.
